6. Announcements

7 Roosjen has replaced Verveer as an elected council member from TOF and is therefore eligible to vote.
8 Currently, the council is still looking for two council assistants to replace Malash and Ouwehand. Roosjen is 9 attending today's meeting, but the Centraal Stembureau (CSB) hasn't reallocated Verveer's council seat yet.
10 Thus, Kemper asks the council whether the council is willing to allow Roosjen to vote during this meeting;
11 there are no objections. Considering Roosjen is new to the council, he is asked to briefly introduce himself.
12 Moreover, Kemper explains that everyone is free to make a technical point during the meetings. The entire 13 council shares the responsibility of ensuring and safekeeping their meetings and discussions' standards.

1 Khamseh announces that he will be absent for the last week of this month, but that he'll still be able to help
2 council members regardless of not being able to be present at meetings.
3 Piraianu notes when the DB of the FSR has its weekly meetings where they set the agenda for the PV, he adds
4 that councilors should feel free to comment on the agenda or supply subjects. He mentions this so the 5 attendees are aware of how they can exact influence on the agenda setting, also before the PV.

7. Deciding: Huishoudelijk Reglement (Internal Regulations)

6 At the beginning of the council year members have worked really hard on the current Huishoudelijk Reglement
7 (HR). They also decided to add the Diversity Commitment's Working Agreement to the HR. Attendees can use
8 the meeting piece to see what this addition to the HR would entail. The councilors go over the document:

- 9 • They propose to edit point 17.5: 'lezinge'n should be changed to 'het verder lezen'.
 - 10 ◦ Subsequently, Khamseh proposes to change it to 'verder leeswerk'.
- 11 • Regarding point 17.3, Kemper notes that the diversity report's length is very daunting but that it is 12 very useful and urges everyone to at least read the summary.
- 13 • Regarding point 17.5, they propose to change 'belangrijk' to 'relevant'.
- 14 • Regarding point 17.6, they propose to change 'veiligheidspersoon' to 'vertrouwenspersoon'.

15 Before moving on to the voting procedure, Kemper asks everyone if they have any more topics that they'd like
16 to discuss regarding the HR. Mars responds that he has some issues with point 17.4, he believes that the HR
17 should be as basic as possible when it comes to decision making. Meaning that he feels that the HR shouldn't 18 steer people towards reading certain literature. However, Mars is in favor of most of the other points and 19 proposals. Khamseh replies to Mars that he understands his perspective, but that he personally doesn't see the 20 harm in it. Kemper adds that the reading is a recommendation. However, Hondtong agrees with Mars. Though,
21 she believes the reading should be encouraged informally and not in the HR. Ballak counters that she'd still like
22 the encouragement to be on paper; if they don't add it to the HR, she would like to see it reflected in the Diversity
23 Commitment. Mars believes that by using the term 'intersectionality' one already takes a stance in an ongoing
24 discussion. Khamseh retorts that the point is to promote critical thinking and Kemper believes the current 25 phrasing of the point is good as it is. Khamseh notes that he agrees with changes is everyone is in favor of them.

- 27 • Regarding point 17.4, the terms 'intersectionaliteit' and 'dekolonisatie' are replaced by 'inclusiviteit' and 28 'diversiteit'.

29 The council commences with its voting procedure.

30
31 Voting proposal: The FSR FGw 2021-2022 proposes to add to the working agreement ('Huishoudelijk

Hondtong indicates that she likes the article and feels happy about the council's critical attitude but urges the writers to take a closer look at the confidentiality of some parts of the letter. Van Eck wonders what the consequences are of publishing confidential information. Kemper and Senchi note that it would be a violation of trust and that it could lead to a lawsuit. Moreover, Kemper believes it would lead to a dynamic where the council is no longer granted the benefit of the doubt. Van Eck responds that doesn't believe the university will actually sue.

However, Ballak feels some parts of the article are currently too idealistic and that, in general, it needs more balance. She specifically refers to the sentence: "In het ideale geval hebben managers geen enkele invloed meer op elkaars aanstelling, en worden er voor belangrijke functies open verkiezingen gehouden." Mars states that he feels they have nothing to lose and that they're currently completely dependent upon the goodwill of the board. In his opinion they should break the cycle in order to upend this dependence. Ballak counters that the article should be generalized to focus on the board as a whole and not just the position of the dean. This way they can also highlight the dependence Mars is talking about. According to Kemper this particular point is already implied in the document, but she'd agree to making it more explicit. Both Kemper and Ballak refer to their issues with the board during the OER process. They stress how this process demonstrated the problems regarding the dynamic between the board and the council as well as the way the council's right – as defined in the WHW – seem up to the board's interpretation. Kemper asks Roosjen for his input on the matter, he replies that he is aware of how the WHW is up for interpretation and notes that the council should make sure to use its rights to perform their tasks. Moreover, Roosjen notes that he has made some textual suggestions regarding the use of capital letters.

Referring to Ballak's statement on the idealism in the quoted sentence above, Khamseh comments that he likes it. Especially, because it gives them something to aim for. Mars indicates that he is willing to change the idealistic parts of the document. Ballak proposes for them to work some more on the article, to focus on the

1 current council year and to publish it at the end of the year. Kemper notes how the article might affect the
2 elections and the next council. Mars disagrees with publishing it at the end of the year and notes that he feels
3 the letter has a sense of urgency. Furthermore, he believes it would be fairer to publish the article as soon as
4 possible so the incoming council knows what they will be facing. Piraianu makes a remark about the ideal of 5 having a completely democratic faculty and what that could look like, Kemper cuts him off by apologizing for 6 not supplying an adequate translation of the text and that he perhaps something due this in the buildup of the 7 text. Van Eck agrees with Mars and feels that it'd be relevant to publish the letter now, also considering the 8 instatement of the new dean. Moreover, Van Eck is in favor of publishing the possibly confidential parts of the 9 letter. He notes that it would also gain them the experience of knowing what will happen if they do so. Senchi
10 addresses the council and notes that she is unwilling, as an UvA employee, to cooperate on publishing
11 confidential information. Mars retorts that the council won't be held back in their decision making by Senchi's
12 position. Senchi counters that her stance isn't about influencing the council's decision making but about 13 distancing herself from council decisions that break confidentiality. Piraianu stresses that he is very much
14 opposed to the publication of the possibly confidential parts in the letter. Mars comments that the council
15 cannot say they'll never break confidentiality. The council decides to continue their discussion next week,
16 before voting on the letter.

9. Options: Agenda Points for Vooroverleg (VO)/Overlegvergadering (OV)

17 The council lists the following subjects as proposed OV topics:

- 18 • Ukraine
- 19 • Social Safety
- 20 • Mental Health
 - 21 ○ Contemplation Rooms
 - 22 ○ Tutorship
 - 23 ○ Study Advisors
 - 24 ○ RIVM report
 - 25 ○ IMR Q4

26
27 Kemper notes that some of these topics have already been discussed at previous OVs. She suggests going over
28 the old OV minutes to check what promises the board has made and to make sure they follow up on them.
29 Regarding the topic of mental health, Kemper notes they can use the IMR to support their arguments. Senchi
30 adds they can use the RIVM report for this too. Ballak indicates that's she would like OPR and ELC to 31 cooperate as speakers during the OV. Regarding mental health, an attendee stresses that the faculty should 32 organize a day at the start of the academic year for first-year students to inform them of all the available
33 student wellbeing resources. The council is faced with two options regarding a meeting piece for the OV: 1) 34 an unsolicited advice and pushing the board for a formal written reply, or 2) a memo and pushing the board
35 during their discussion at the OV. Senchi remarks that the deadline for the meeting pieces for the OV is 36 upcoming Friday [March 11th, 2022], but Kemper notes they might be able to push it to next week. Svendsen
37 indicates she doesn't have time to work on a meeting piece due to her deadlines and Ballak stresses that 38 working on a meeting piece would take time off her thesis. Kemper proposes to summarize the previous 39 memos and to prepare a document before Friday next week [March 18th, 2022]. Should the board decline a
40 postponement of the deadline, they will simply use the previous memos. Senchi makes a point of letters
41 and/or meeting pieces needing to be finished and voted in before the Vooroverleg, Kemper comments that 42 this isn't stated clearly in the inwerkmap, and she hadn't realized this until now. Roosjen cuts in and notes

1 that the inwerkmap clearly states that OV meeting pieces have to be finished two weeks before the OV takes 2 place.

3 Moreover, it stated they should perhaps take note of the dean transfer event and the tasteless and tactless
4 social safety jokes that were made. Hondtong refers to fragments of the FredVlog that was being showed,
5 which were particularly distasteful. Mars questions whether the jokes are referring to the social safety cases
6 or a broader cultural shift. Hondtong is also critical of how Fred Weerman's calamities as dean were 7 unmentioned at the event.

8 Lastly, they would like to ask the board for an update regarding how the faculty is handling the war situation
9 in Ukraine.

10. Deciding: Wandkrant

10 Sara Verveer has worked very diligently on the new Wandkrant and the council takes a brief moment to look
11 it over. Hondtong indicates the content speaks for itself. Considering the council is running out of time this 12 PV, Senchi proposes to speed up the process by turning this subject into an email vote. First, Hondtong will 13 take out the spelling mistakes and make the necessary edits, and later they will vote via email on the final
14 version. Hondtong notes that she will be taking over Verveer's job of arranging the logistics for the publication
15 of the Wandkrant.

16 Furthermore, Kemper notes that she has given an interview as council chair and would like to vote on this as 17 well. Like the Wandkrant the interview is also moved to an email vote.

18

11. Wvttk (any other business)

19 Kemper indicates that after first being rejected, the new (email) vote on the ASVA & FSR opinion piece has 20 been adopted. Regardless, the dean event and publication have been postponed due to De Goede being unable 21 to attend on the proposed date and time.

22 OPR remarks that tomorrow [March 10th, 2022] is the deadline for the council's input on the lecture-free week
23 in block 5 and asks everyone to share their thought before this time.

12. Final Points & Closing

24 The meeting is closed 10:52.
