5. Updates (MS Teams)

5.1. Student Member fDB/CoH/GSH

38 Vroom is interested to know how the council experienced their introduction lunch with the new dean,
39 Marieke de Goede. Piraianu explains that he experiences it as very pleasant and Ballak adds that De Goede
40 seemed very interested in the council's opinions. Among other things, the council and dean discussed their 41 goals for the faculty.

1 Furthermore, Vroom and the council discuss the opening of BG3, the board's new location, and how it has
2 physically separated the faculty's administration from its students.

6. Announcements

3 Kemper is absent and has mandated Svendsen, Mars is absent and has mandated Van Eck. Ballak informs the 4 council that there is an empty spot in the councils Daily Board, which council assistants - like members - are
5 also allowed to fill. Moreover, the council is also looking for someone to replace Sara Verveer as the council's
6 treasurer. The councilors will be given some time to consider their interest for the available position and at a
7 later moment the DB will circle back on this topic to discuss candidacy.

9 Vroom leaves

220210-02 Regarding Tutoring:

- Van Wesemael will make sure the data from the tutoring evaluations in January 2022 is shared with the council

Regarding this being the new dean's first OV with the FSR, the council is made aware that they are in control of what the tone of future OVs can be. Fred Weerman had been an experienced administrator when the new council started this year, which forced them to take his lead. Currently, the council is the experienced party in the meetings with the dean and is now in charge of leading the type of discourse and deciding the level of formality at the OV.

7.1. FNWI Letter: Issues Faculty councils

Hondtong explains that the letter mentions four key points to attract more potential candidates and to prevent councilors from dropping out: 1) getting a higher stipend, 2) getting credits (similar to the situation at Political Science; the students get a stipend and credits), 3) exemption from the N+1 rule, and 4) getting a letter of recommendation from the dean. Hondtong would like to go over these topics point by point, starting with the stipend.

The CSR receives a commissietoelage which is €40 higher than the FSR FGW members onkostenvergoeding. They also note how the humanities faculty is responsible for more programs than law, which means they have to put in more work but receive the same amount of compensation. However, it is unlikely that getting a higher stipend can be arranged short term – they are expecting to have to wait for two years. Moreover, other faculty councils might deem separate funding from the faculty budget for this purpose to be unfair. Hondtong is interested to know what the council believes would be a fair amount for the stipend. Ballak fees they should try to get more months from the *profleringsofond*s. Hondtong will do so and refer to the differences between the Law and Humanities workload. The council is also asked to consider that part-time students, who'd have more time for council work, aren't eligible for a grant at all.

Regarding credits for a council year, De Goede has already demonstrated her interest in such an idea. The council will try to aim high in order to gain a fair number of credits for council work.

Hall Allen indicates she is in favor of demanding the N+1 rule be scrapped. She recognizes that it might not apply to cum laude regulations at the faculty, but it does for the honors program. The council also feels that the difference between the policies for cum laude and honors should be clarified. Ballak wonders why honors are part of the OER A if their policies are program specific.

Regarding the letter of recommendation from the dean, the council considers several options for making sure such a request doesn't negatively affect the dynamic between the board and the council: 1) the council writes the recommendation letter for the dean to sign, 2) the council writes starting points for the board to draw inspiration from to write a signed letter, 3) the board will write the letter without the council's input. Moreover, councilors should have the option to choose whether they want a letter, in case they have any objections to receiving such a letter.

7.2. Mental Health

38
39
40
41
42

To make sure the council finally gets a response the council will send an unsolicited advice instead of a memo on the topic. The current document entails a summary of the previous memos and request updates on the status of promises made during the OV discussions. It also discusses some of the content of the Mental Wellbeing Workgroup by Sanne Klaver. Ballak notes that they looked over the model for study advisors and calculated the number of study advisors that should be available to the number of students. Currently there is 1 study advisor per 638 students, a shocking statistic. The ratio is better than at the other faculties but still seriously unsustainable for and irresponsible to both advisors and students. The council expects the

1 lockdown to have a long-lasting effect on student mental health, but currently the only way to get to
2 workshops and other tools is via the study advisors, who are, of course, already faced with an insane number
3 of students. The council will prepare for a response from the board, likely, saying that not all students need
4 a study advisor. Moreover, they should ask input from the study advisors on this particular topic too. ELC
5 and OPR will work to turn their remarks in the document into concrete actions they can demand, and they
6 will consider setting up deadlines for the action points they wish to acquire during the OV.

8 Voting proposal: The FSR FGw 2021-2022 proposes to mandate ELC to finish the unsolicited advice
9 on mental health and to send it to the fDB.

12 The proposal is adopted. The FSR FGw 2021-2022 will mandate ELC to finish the unsolicited advice
13 on mental health and to send it to the fDB.

14 7.3. Stand van Zaken: Ukraine

15 Piraianu offers to become a speaker for this part of the OV, where he will make sure the board informs students of the available options regarding the situation.

16 8. Wvttk (any other business)

17 Ballak notes that in support of Ukraine, the council should create a social media post to reach out to students
18 who know the Russian and Ukrainian language and are willing and/or able to volunteer at the refugee center at Java-eiland. The majority of the council is in favor of sharing such a post.

19 9. Final Points & Closing

The meeting is closed 10:46.
